PUBLISHERS' PREFACE

One of the stipulations connected with our purchase of the magnificent Collection of Greek coins, formed by the late Sir Hermann Weber, was that we should publish a comprehensive and fully illustrated Catalogue, to serve as a Record of the Collection and to make it available for study.

Owing to present-day difficulties, the publication has been delayed beyond our wish, but we have spared neither trouble nor expense in securing its successful accomplishment.

We can only express the hope that this new addition of material to ancient Greek numismatics will prove of service, now that the Collection itself, owing to its dispersal, can no longer be referred to.

PREFATORY NOTE

BY THE COMPILER

Upon undertaking the task of compiling the Catalogue which has now reached completion, I hesitated as to whether I should follow the traditional method of describing the coins according to geographical divisions, or adopt the more rational system, founded on the suggestions and scientific principles, advocated for many years by Prof. Percy Gardner<sup>1</sup> and other scholars. In the Sale Catalogue of the Rev. A. C. Headlam's Collection of Greek Coins<sup>2</sup> I attempted an arrangement of this kind, and the Weber Collection being much larger the same ideas might have been worked out more fully. This I could have done without much difficulty with regard to the coins of Magna Graecia, and in particular of Sicily, on the basis of Holm's Geschichte Siciliens, Bd. III, but, after considering the immense labour involved in the rearranging of the whole collection consisting of over 8500 coins and the endless research necessitated in the fixing of the classification, according to trade routes, standards, spheres of influence, etc. — so many theories advanced being only conjectural<sup>3</sup> — I have, much to my regret, been obliged to give up my first idea, and revert to the old system of giving the succession of monetary issues under each state and city.

In my work, I have strictly adhered to the order of B. V. Head's Historia Numorum and the British Museum Catalogue of Greek coins (27 vols, 1873-1920), even adopting in my descriptions of the coins the phraseology of the writers, realizing that the very terms used were as a rule the result of careful scientific consideration.

The labels attached to the great majority of the coins in the Weber Collection, and the references made to his own specimens in the official British Museum Catalogues and in his copy of the Historia Numorum have proved of great service in the compilation of the Catalogue.

I need not say that I take the sole responsibility for any errors, incorrect attributions, and lacunae which I have not escaped, and ask for indulgence on the part of my critics.

It is with deepest gratitude that I acknowledge here my obligations to Dr G. F. Hill, Keeper of Coins and Medals in the British Museum, and to Mr. E. S. G. Robinson, one of the Assistants, for the invaluable assistance they have kindly rendered in answering frequent queries, solving difficulties, and the latter especially for perusing the complete catalogue, suggesting corrections, attributing many Incerta, etc. I am also indebted to my friend M. Michel P. Vlasto of Marseilles, who has kindly revised the portion of the Catalogue relating to the coins of Tarentum; to Mr. E. T. Newell, President of the American Numismatic Society, New York, who has rearranged the coins of Alexander the Great, in accordance with the result of his own study of this subject; to the Rev. Edgar Rogers, who has classified for me the Seleucidan series; to Sir Arthur Evans, the late Dr. F. Imhoof-Blumer, Mr. J. Mavrogordato, M. E. Babelon, M. R. Jameson, and other authorities, whose personal help or whose works have greatly facilitated my task.

Conspicuous amongst the most important collections of Greek coins ever formed by a private individual was that begun some forty years ago by the late Sir Hermann Weber, and purchased en bloc from his executors at the end of December 1918, by Messrs Spink & Son Limited, 17 & 18 Piccadilly, London W.

Sir Hermann Weber<sup>1</sup> was born on December 30, 1823, at Holzkirchen, a small village in the North of Bavaria, where his father, a native of Bielefeld, resided as the administrator of an estate of Count Mensdorff-Pouilly. His mother, whose maiden name was Ruperti, was said to be of Italian descent, one of her ancestors having come from Italy in the suite of one of the Prince-Abbots of Fulda. Young Hermann spent his early life on his father's farm and there developed that love for open-air life, which, later in his medical career, he so strongly recommended, and which perhaps led him to take such a prominent interest in the subject of climatotherapy. At the age of nine he was sent to a private school at Würzburg, and in 1838, he was transferred to the Gymnasium at Fulda, to which town the family had removed from Holzkirchen. After passing his matriculation, he began medical studies at Marburg University, 1844, to pursue them later at Bonn, where in 1848 he took the M. D. degree, and started to practise as a physician.

From early youth, a great admiration for Skakespeare's plays, had led Weber to study the English language. His university teachers were apparently in the habit of attaching him as a guide to English visitors who came to them bearing letters of introduction. Thus it was that he made the acquaintance of Sir James Simpson, and it was doubtless in that way that at Marburg he had met Carlyle, of whom he always kept the most pleasant recollections. Of great influence on his later life was his intercourse with the English colony residing at Bonn, where he was brought into professional contact with Sir Peregrine and Lady Sarah Maitland, Colonel (later Major-General Sir Henry) Havelock, the Turtons, and many distinguished visitors and residents at the famous university town. His love for England and the British led him to apply for the vacant post of Resident Medical Officer of the London German Hospital (at Dalston), to which he was elected in May 1851, becoming afterwards physician and consulting physician to the Hospital. On the completion of this appointment, he decided to start a practice as a physician in London, giving up the idea of returning to Germany, a disposition which was confirmed by his marriage in 1854 to an English lady, Matilda Grüning. In order to obtain an English qualification, he underwent a period of study at Guy's Hospital, and in 1855, became a Member of the Royal College of Physicians, to which, four years later, he was elected a Fellow. Among his friends in the early days in London were Thomas Addison, Edmund Parkes, Wilson Fox and Hilton Fagge. His affection and admiration for Parkes led him in 1894 to present to the College a sum of £ 3000 to found a prize to be awarded every third year to the author of the best essay upon some subject connected with the etiology, prevention, pathology or treatment of tuberculosis. The prize, appropriately named the Weber-Parkes Prize, has been awarded on five occasions<sup>1</sup>.

Notes culled from "Autobiographical Reminiscences of Sir Hermann Weber, written for the family; with Annotations, and a list of his Medical Works, by his son, Frederick Parkes Weber", London, 1919. Privately printed for Dr F. P. Weber. — Through the kindness and courtesy of Dr F. P. Weber I was able to consult this monograph, and obtained permission to reproduce for a frontispiece of the Catalogue the excellent portrait of Sir Hermann Weber, taken in 1908.

Weber was from the first specially interested in the treatment of consumption, and he was one of the pioneers of the open-air treatment, being one of the first to advise patients to spend the winter in the high valleys of the Engadine. Himself an alpinist, he became an enthusiastic member of the Alpine Club, and made many early ascents of difficult mountains. In his sixty-eighth year he climbed the Wetterhorn and Jungfrau, when seventy-three crossed the Capuchin from Pontresina to Sils, and in his eightieth year crossed the Diavolezza several times.

Among Weber's famous patients may be mentioned five Prime Ministers, namely, Lord Derby, Earl Russell (Lord John Russell), Lord Salisbury, Lord Rosebery, and Sir H. Campbell-Banermann. He was also frequently consulted on the choice of a health resort for members of the Royal Family. His professional status was recognized by the Royal College of Physicians, when he served on the Council for five years, being Censor in 1879 and 1880. King Edward, then Prince of Wales, appointed him a delegate to the Berlin Congress on the Prevention of Tuberculosis in 1899. He was on terms of intimacy with Lord Lister, Sir William Jenner, Sir James Paget, Sir William Gull, Sir Henry Thompson, Sir Spencer Wells, and many other eminent members of the medical profession.

Sir Hermann Weber retired from practice at the age of eighty, but continued to take a keen interest in medical science and hygiene, and remained a contributor to medical periodicals. One of his later works, on 'Means for the Prolongation of life', has reached four editions. The value of his teaching was certainly well illustrated in his own case, for at the age of ninety-five he was able to walk on an average fifty miles a week regardless of weather. I remember meeting him one morning before nine a few weeks before his death, alert and fresh, taking his 'constitutional', a strong wind blowing, which would have deterred many a younger man from venturing out unless of necessity. As Sir Norman Moore wrote of him, "when one met him he never seemed the least

1. Obituary notice from the British Medical Journal for November 23rd, 1918.

"The Weber-Parkes Prize Medal of the Royal College of Physicians of London is the work of the London medallist, Mr. Frank Bowcher, and the conception of the reverse design was due to Sir Hermann Weber himself.

Mr. Bowcher was also assisted by Mr. Alexander Stuart Murray, the late keeper of Greek and Roman antiquities in the British Museum. On the obverse is a fine portrait of Sir Hermann Weber, in profile to left. The reverse of the medal represents Asklepios seated with Demeter, Apollo and Herakles standing before him. The idea is that the physician (represented by Asklepios) avails himself of the powers of Nature in preventing and curing pulmonary tuberculosis. He requires for these purposes: food, supplied by Demeter; light and warmth, supplied by Apollo (the sun, the promoter of growth and the destroyer of injurious microbes); and, further, purity of air and muscular force, indicated by Herakles. The figures are taken from Greek sculptures and coins of the best period of Greek art" (Dr F. P. Weber, op. cit., Pl. xiv).

There is a Medallion Portrait of Sir Hermann Weber, by the French Medallist, Alphée Dubois, of Paris (1893). The portrait is chiefly after a very good photograph taken in 1881. The reverse celebrates the 70th year of his age, and is the work of Mr. Frank Bowcher (see F. Parkes Weber, "English Medals by Foreign Artists", London, 1894).

out of breath, and his bright expression made it impossible to go on without pausing for a few pleasant words with him ”.

Many honours were bestowed upon him. In 1899 he was knighted by Queen Victoria. He was consulting physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption at Ventnor, to the North London (Mount Vernon) Consumption Hospital, and to the German Hospital and a member of the consulting committee of the King Edward VII Sanatorium. He was also honorary and corresponding member of a large number of learned societies in Great Britain and in foreign countries.

His works include ‘Climatotherapy and Balneotherapy’ the first edition, entitled “ ‘The Spas and Mineral Waters of Europe’ ”, 1896, being the joint work of himself and of his son, Dr F. Parkes Weber: ‘Notes on the Climate of the Swiss Alps’ (1864); ‘Means for the Prolongation of Life’; ‘Treatment of Phthisis by residence in Elevated Regions’; and ‘Hygienic and Climatic Treatment of Phthisis’ (Croonian Lectures, 1885).

Sir Hermann Weber died at his residence in London, 10 Grosvenor square, W, on the morning of November 11th, 1918, in his ninety-fifth year, apparently without pain, in a kind of faint, when getting up. The terrible war had no doubt caused him much grief, but as The Times obituary notice mentions, “ throughout this fearful struggle, his sympathies were cordially and wholly on the side of his adopted country, where he had worked for sixty-five years, and his one wish was to live to see the final victory which he expected. His younger son, Lieutenant-Colonel Weber, D. S. O., R. F. A., and all his grandsons (of military age), five in number, had fought nearly throughout the whole war, and one of his grandsons lost his life at Ypres in 1914 ”.

Sir Hermann was endowed with an extraordinary charm of manner, which endeared him to all who came into contact with him. He had a keen sense of humour, and was always ready to lend a friendly hand.

Numismatics became his hobby in later years, his interest in Greek and Roman coins being first roused by types referring to the healing art. His collection, which he began in the latter years of the seventies, soon increased in extent and importance, and acquired a high reputation among numismatists. Eminent collectors, as W. H. Waddington, successively French Prime Minister and French Ambassador in London, Dr F. Imhoof-Blumer, of Winterthur, the lamented facile princeps of Greek numismatics, J. P. Six of Amsterdam, Dr Barclay V. Head of the British Museum, and his colleagues, were among his best friends and advisers. During visits to Greece, Asia Minor, Sicily, Tunis, Egypt, Turkey, and Palestine, he enriched his cabinet, which included not only a large number of great rarities, but many representatives of coins of the finest period of art and pieces of capital importance in Greek numismatology. “ He became a member of the Numismatic Society in 1883, served on its Council from 1889 to 1906, and was five times Vice-President between 1890 and 1901. He was awarded the Medal of the Society in 1905 ”. According to Dr G. F. Hill, his chief written contributions to Numismatics were the following papers in the Numismatic Chronicle: “ On some Unpublished or Rare Greek Coins ” (Third Series, 1892, vol. XII, and 1896, vol. XVI); “ Coins of Mende ” (Third Series, 1898, vol. XVIII); “ On Finds of Archaic Greek Coins in Lower Egypt ” (Third Series, 1899, vol. XIX); to which may be added his paper in Corolla Numismatica (1906) on “ Rare or Unpublished Coins in his collection. Dr Hill further remarks that "his generosity in giving access to his cabinet to any scholar who chose to apply to him was no less valuable as a contribution to science than the communications which took shape in print." At first Sir Hermann's collection included Anglo-Saxon, English and Roman Coins. The English portion was sold by auction on 16 June 1885<sup>1</sup> and his Collection of Roman Coins came under the hammer, on 29th and 30th June 1893. This comprised Roman Family Denarii, Imperial Aurei, Denarii, a very fine series of Sestertii, Dupondii, and late small Æ. His Antiquities were dispersed by the same auctioneers, on 22nd and 23rd May 1919 (226 lots). A copy of the latter sale catalogue, with rectifications and additions, will be found bound together with the Third volume of the Catalogue of Greek Coins.

The Collection of Greek Coins<sup>2</sup> comprised many pieces unique or of the utmost rarity, the acquisition of which for the nation was much to be desired. A special Government grant, with the help of the National Art Collections Fund and of one or two friends of the Museum, including Dr F. Parkes Weber has secured for the nation some of the most important of the coins, which were offered at special terms by the purchasers, Messrs Spink & Son Ltd.

Foremost among the priceless gems of the Weber Collection, which are now in the British Museum are four gold staters of Lampsacus, of extreme beauty, one representing Victory sacrificing a ram (n° 5095), and the others, the heads of the goddess Hera (5098), of Dionysus crowned with ivy (5099), and of Hecate (5103), identified by a torch, of which a trace is visible behind her shoulder. No less interesting are several electrum staters and hecte of Cyzicus, remarkable as fine examples of Greek treatment of animal forms. A unique coin of Smyrna (6114), with a severe head of Apollo and a graceful lyre, fills a gap in our historical records, proving, apparently, that this city, about a hundred years after its destruction by Alyattes, had again risen to importance, although there is nothing known until recently of its restoration before the time of Antigonos and Lysimachus. A splendid coin of Cnidus (6475), shows the head of the Cnidian Aphrodite immortalized by Praxiteles; another, of Chersonesus (4397), in Crete, reproduces the head of the heroine, Britomartis, and ranks amongst the finest coins issued in that island. Belonging to the Asia Minor series are an early Lycian stater (7236), with lion's mask and triskeles, a curious piece of King Khäriga of Xanthos (7232), a fine stater of Queen Amastris (4796), niece of the last king of Persia, one of the best fourth century portrait coins, a very rare and early coin of Selge with the Aspendus type and Pamphylian inscription (7417). Charming in design is a beautiful coin of Tarsus (7631), representing Athene seated on one side and on the other, Aphrodite, in graceful attitude, playing knucklebones. To the Thracian Chersonese belongs a tetradrachm (2400), bearing on the obverse a lion and on the reverse a helmeted head. Very early examples of Macedonian coins call for attention, and in particular an octadrachm, of primitive style, of Getas, king of the Edonians (1853), known only from his coins, which shows on obverse a herdsman guiding two oxen. A fine head of Athene, of bold relief and pure archaic style, is exhibited on a tetradrachm of Athens (3433), belonging to the later times of the Pisistratidae. Of great interest is a coin of Olympia (4044), with the eagle's head and thunderbolt, with an F, the early initial digamma, a letter early lost in Attic Greek, incused or struck in intaglio<sup>3</sup>.

1. Auctioneers, Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge, 13 Wellington St., Strand.

2. Sir Hermann Weber sold by auction a part of his Greek Coins, chiefly duplicates, on 13, July, 1892 (170 lots).

3. The Weber Collection of Greek Coins, Illustrated London News, December 6, 1919, p. 918. — The Christian Science Monitor, March, 1920.

Some coins of Magna Graecia which are now incorporated in the National Collection deserve also especial mention; one is the exceedingly rare tetradrachm of Himera (n° 1349), of the fifth century, with a lovely figure of the nymph of the hot springs of Himera on obverse, and on reverse Pelops driving the Olympian chariot; another (1350) of the same mint, represents the same nymph sacrificing at an altar, with the inscription ΣΟΤΕΡ on reverse, and on obverse horseman leaping from galloping horse. A didrachm of Thurium (881), is one of the finest examples of fully developed Attic art. Other coins of Croton, Velia, Heracleia, Catana, Leontini, Syracuse, etc., are no less remarkable for their artistic beauty than for their rarity.

A very rare tetradrachm of Ptolemy I Soter (8213), of Egypt, has the remarkable inscription ΠΤΟΛΕΜΑΙΟΥ ΑΛΕΞΑΝΔΡΕΙΟΝ, and appears to have been struck at the newly founded city of Alexandria.

The coins above mentioned are but very few of the numerous rarities in the Weber collection; they are among those selected by Dr G. F. Hill, keeper of coins in the British Museum, for special mention by the journalists who reported on the Nation's acquisitions from this famous cabinet. Besides these, there are hundreds of others representing almost every district of the ancient world in which coins were issued, which the British Museum was able to secure, thus filling important gaps, especially in the series of Greek Imperial Coins.

A superficial look over the Plates will be sufficient to convince any one of the extreme richness of the Weber collection. To give only one instance, no private collection in the world, apart from those of H. I. H. the Grand Duke Alexander of Russia and of M. R. Jameson in Paris, could boast of such a fine series of Cyzicene electrum coins (4964-5025); and as already mentioned, some of the Weber Lampsacene staters, had long been considered as priceless gems; some of these are now among the chief treasures of the National Collection.

There are however a number of other choice pieces of the Weber Collection which cannot be passed unnoticed: 141. Quincussis of Rome, Eagle with spread wings; rev. Pegasus flying to l. (the eighth known specimen); 308. Cumae, Didrachm (Num. Chron., 1896, Pl. I, 1); 511. Tarentum, Incuse stater, with Taras riding on dolphin; 512. Tarentum, Incuse stater with Apollo Hyakinthios (only seven specimens known; this coin was ceded to M. M. P. Vlasto by Sir Hermann Weber during his lifetime, 1906; 548. Tarentum, A' Stater, Head of Hera; rev. The Dioscuri on horseback; 553. Tarentum, A' Stater, Head of Herakles; rev. Taras in biga; 1025. Croton, Stater, Herakles, seated on rock; rev. Tripod; 1196. Agrigentum, Tetradrachm, by Myron; 1247. Camarina, Tetradrachm, by Exakestidas; 1269. Catana, Tetradrachm, by Herakleidas, Head of Apollo three-quarter face to l., rev. Quadriga, a superb coin; 1330. Gela, Tetradrachm, Head of young river-god Gelas, rev. Quadriga; 1452. Motya, Tetradrachm, Head of nymph, rev. Crab; 1519. Segesta, Tetradrachm, Quadriga, rev. Youthful hunter; 1539. Selinus, Tetradrachm, River-god sacrificing at altar, rev. Quadriga; 1611. Syracuse, Decadrachm, by Kimon, first style; 1612. Another with signature K and KΙΜΩΝ on obv. and on rev. KΙΜΩΝ; 1796. Orrescii, Octadrachm, Herdsman leading two oxen; 1846. Ichnae, Stater, Warrior restraining prancing horse, rev. wheel; 1847. Bisaltae, Octadrachm, Warrior standing beside horse (Brit. Mus.) 1897. Olynthus?, Tetradrachm, Quadriga seen from front (ascribed by Babelon to the Uncertain of Thrace, Macedon, & and by Dr G. F. Hill to Euboea) 1964-1966. Amphipolis, Tetradrachms, Head of Apollo almost facing; 2169. Demetrius Poliorcetes, A' Stater; 2353. Dicaea, Distater, Head of bearded Herakles; 2365. Abdera (?), Octadrachm, Griffin seated to l.; 2689-90. Panticapaeum, A' Staters, Head of bearded Satyr,

H. de la Tour, Atlas de Monnaies gauloises. Paris, 1892.

E. Babelon, Traité des monnaies grecques et romaines, II<sup>e</sup> Partie, t. I, p. 1572 sqq. (Pl. LXXXI-LXXXV). Paris, 1907.

In conformity with the arrangement adopted by Head, in his Historia Numorum, an arrangement which we have strictly followed throughout this Catalogue, the coins of the Auriol Find Class in the Weber collection are described here, under this general heading.

The principal finds of these coins have been made at Saint-Rémy in Provence, 1834, Cavaillon, Volterra, Velia, Figueiras, 1868, Morella, 1862, Rosas and Ampurias, but the most important hoard was discovered at Auriol, in the Department of the Bouches-du-Rhône, 1867, hence the name under which this class of coins is usually designated.

These coins, which consist of small divisions of a drachm of 60-62 grains, Thirds, Sixths, Twelfths, and Twenty-fourths, were apparently the earliest coins circulated, and later imitated, in Spain, South of France, and littoral of the West Mediterranean.

The standard of the coins is that used at Velia, Cumae, Neapolis, and during the first period at Poseidonia.

Dr Head remarks "that the varieties found in Spain are less archaic in style than those of the Auriol hoard".

A. Grueber, Coins of the Roman Republic, Pl. III-IV. Haeberlin, p. 64, n° 5, Pl. 61, 1 (this specimen). Head, Hist. Num., 1855, p. 25. Garrucci, vol. I, Pl. XXIII, p. 12, n° 1. Hill, Rom. Hist. Coins, Pl. III, and IV. T. Louis Comparette, Aes Signatum, New York, 1919, disputes Dr Haeberlin's attribution of these Bars, and suggests Venusia as the issue mint of the type described here. He is of opinion that it commemorates the conclusion of the Offensive and Defensive League, between Rome and Carthage (indicated by the Eagle and Pegasus) against Pyrrhus. He is inclined to believe that it was produced by private enterprise, soon after the political events of B. C. 279. Dr Haeberlin describes all the known specimens of this type; (1) Mus. Kircher; (2) Meynaert-Gréau; (3) Berl. Mus.; (4) Brit. Mus. and two fragments; (5) Weber (this coin); (6) Kircher Mus. ## LATIUM

Head, Historia Numorum, 1911, p. 24, divides the Coinage of Latium into two classes: 1st, Cast coins, consisting of Aes Grave uninscribed but usually found in Central Italy and chiefly in Latium; 2nd, Struck coins,  $\mathcal{A}$  of the towns of Alba Fucens, Cora and Signia, and  $\mathcal{A}$  of Aquinum and Cora.

1. Aes Grave.

Haeberlin, Aes Grave, 1910, arranges the Cast coins into the following classes:

(A). B. C. 312-286.

Light or Oscan Pound. As of 272-58 gm. = 4210 grs.

(I). The Latin Wheel Series. — Tressis to Sextans.

(II). Series with head of Roma on the As. Obv. types repeated on Rev. — As to Semuncia.

(II<sup>a</sup>). Series similar, but with the addition of a Club on both sides. — As to Uncia.

(III). The light Janus-Mercury series, with symbol Sickle on obv. of As and Quadrans, and on Rev. of the rest. — As to Uncia.

(IV). The light Apollo Series, with obv. types repeated on rev., and symbol Vine-leaf on both sides. — As to Uncia.

(B) B. C. 286-268.

(V). Heavy Apollo series. Similar to series IV, but without symbol. — As to Uncia.

(VI). Heavy Janus-Mercury series. Similar to series III, but without symbol.

Series I-V, Haeberlin assigns to the Roman mint at Capua, and series VI to the Mint of Rome itself.

He describes all these coins under the heading of ROME, as the responsible issuing power. The coins, in Sir Hermann Weber's collection, belonging to these classes are catalogued in the order of Haeberlin's plates under Rome (cf. nos 134-197), including the Quincussis (no 141) which the same authority considers to have been issued by Rome, at her mint of Capua, in common with the other eight types of quadrilateral ingots or bars of bronze (cf. Hist. Num., p. 25).

Vlasto date the incuse Staters much earlier (B. C. 560-500); however, Arthur Sambon (Revue Numismatique, 1916), the latest authority who has studied this class of coins, prefers the above dating. * Now in M. Vlasto's collection. Vlasto, after comparing this coin with the casts which he possesses of the 30 known specimens of this type has come to the conclusion that it is from the same dies as the Berlin coin and one of his own (found at Lecce, 1906). He further states: "La pièce Weber porte sous le dauphin, près de la bordure, deux globules (marque de valeur indiquant qu'à Tarente ces monnaies valaient 2 drachmes et non pas 3). Ces globules ont été ajoutés après un long usage de ce coin et je ne les ai retrouvés que sur un seul exemplaire du Cabinet des Médailles de Paris, n° 1215. Je possédais déjà dans ma collection trois Tarentines de types divers avec de semblables additions ou retouches faites aux coins après avoir servi".

M. Cat., p. 171, n° 82, on which however the oekist holds on extended r. a dove by its wings (cf. Vlasto, Num. Chron., 1907, Pl. x, 5). On the above nomos which is probably the work of a Messapian engraver, the dove of the prototype which is of pure Greek style, has been misunderstood and changed into a fish in a small net. The Sim catalogue described the object as "a barbed hook with dolphin". There is a similar nomos in the Naples cabinet (Fiorelli, n° 1806), cf. R. Rochette, Num. Tarent., p. 212: "Dextra parvum rete in quo piscis" and Sambon (Recherches sur la Num. de la Presqu'île italique), p. 240, n° 34.

Weber suggested the attribution of this coin to Alalia, or Aleria, a temporary settlement of the Phocaeans in Corsica. This suggestion does not appear to have been adopted, but Babelon describes another Velian drachm bearing the letter E on the lion's shoulder, which letter he states is the initial of Velia.
